

Claudia McGregor

Claudia McGregor qualified as a Speech and Hearing Therapist from the University of the Witwatersrand, South Africa. Her passion for neurological rehabilitation and swallowing disorders led her to start her career in the rehabilitation field. Wanting to further her knowledge of dysphagia she completed her Masters Degree in Speech and Language Pathology at the University of the Witwatersrand in 2002. Mrs. McGregor has since also completed training as a neurodevelopmental therapist and is VitalStim certified.

In 2010 she started a multidisciplinary team for children with feeding difficulties which included a Dietician and Occupational therapist. As a team they follow the highly effective SOS (Sequential Oral Sensory) Approach to feeding management in their clinic. Mrs. McGregor currently works in the private sector and consults to various hospitals in the area. She works primarily as a clinician but also offers practical training workshops for nursing staff. Her area of special interest is paediatric feeding and swallowing difficulties.
